Families, Families, Families is a lovely book by Suzanne and Max Lang. It looks at different families and who you may have in yours. It doesn't matter whether your family is large or small but the important thing is that you love each other.

The book looks includes lots of different animals. Teach your child the correct names for their young such as cow/calf, duck/duckling, cat/kitten. There are also some more unusual ones:

Panda/Cub

Octopus/Larvae

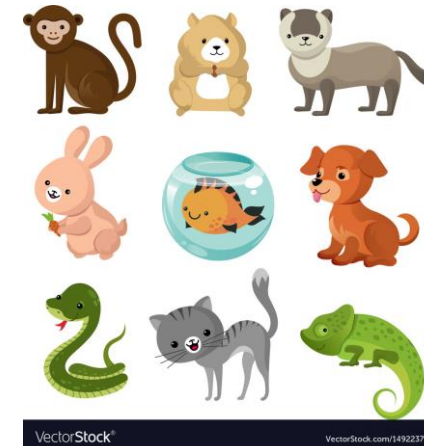

Moose/Calf

Koala/Joey

Why don't you make a photobook or album using pictures of who is in your family. A family tree is sometimes useful for understanding who is related to who.

Your family tree may look very different from the family tree of one of your friends and that is fine. Some people may include their pets as part of their family too.
